SUBJECT:

2006 Hannaford Fall Conference Brings National Speakers to Helena

TEXT:

Coming this September 24-26, the 10th Annual Hannaford Fall Conference at Hannaford Street Bible Church in Helena offers a vital opportunity to hear nationally known presenters speak on the important issues facing Christians and churches in the Northwest states

GENERAL SESSIONS

General sessions are open to everyone! The conference kicks off in the Sunday Worship services on September 24 at 8:30am or 10:45am. The general sessions continue at 6:15pm on Monday & Tuesday, September 25 and 26. This year's featured speaker is Bob Russell, author and former Senior Pastor of Southeast Christian Church in Louisville, Kentucky - named the 6th most influential church in America by Church Report magazine. Also speaking in the general sessions will be Doug Schmidt, Senior Pastor of Woodside Bible Church in Troy, Michigan. In addition to worship led by guest worship leader Martin Allen from Worship Foundations International, author, speaker, and dramatist Jeff Smith will also be sharing his unique blend of drama and comedy.

PASTORS' WORKSHOPS

Additionally, pastors and ministry leaders are encouraged to attend the morning and afternoon sessions which are designed especially for them. The conference provides a time for church leaders to step back, take a breath, and get together with other experienced leaders and teachers to discuss practical ministry challenges and theological issues, as well as how these two realities come together.

The workshops this year will include such topics as "Leading an Effective Worship Ministry with Limited Resources," "Understanding the 'Rurban' Church," "Why Leading a Church is Often More Difficult Than Leading a Business," and a special pastors' wives' workshop entitled "Beauty for Ashes." The goal is to encourage and enable one another, while providing a valuable resource in facing difficult ministry issues specific to churches and leaders in the Northwest.

COST & REGISTRATION

There is no cost for the conference although church leaders planning on attending the workshops are encouraged to register online. For more information or to register, visit www.hannaford.org/hope or call Hannaford Street Bible Church at 406-449-2273.
